Job Description: Special Projects Manager

Hiring Date: As soon as possible

Manage special project for private forestry center, which is part of a 20-year strong New England-wide organization of 14 independently operated sites. Please learn about us: www.neforestryconsultants.com

Seeking a Special Project Manager (PM) with strong organizational, time-management, and leadership skills. A willingness to learn new skills, study for licensing exams, and taking the initiative to problem solve is a must.

The special projects and crews supervised by the PM will complete tasks such as:

- Invasive Species Herbicide Spraying
- Boundary Line Location and Marking
- Wetland and Erosion Control Tree Planting
- Timber Cruising and Marking
- Equipment maintenance and preparation

This position is a unique opportunity, as NEFCo will pay for Herbicide Applicator Licenses for both the states of Vermont and Massachusetts. These projects are large State and federal contracts, requiring travel and some overnights. Milage and lodging expenses provided.

Forestry degree/certification/experience preferred, but not required. The selected candidate will be trained to complete forestry technician skills (timber cruising, tree measurement, marking timber, marking boundary lines).

We are looking for a candidate already possessing the skills for problem solving, reading for detailed requirements, written/electronic record keeping, tracking project costs and requirements for future bidding, and a solid ability for working independently under multiple timelines - from planning to completion.

If you have the character to lead others and problem solve independently, the work ethic for physical labor, and the ability to complete the tasks of licensing, please apply.

This position is full-time with an open start date no later than March 2023.

The more you apply yourself and show your value, the more special projects we will contract. This is YOUR opportunity to build a valuable and profitable career.
